March 13—14

From late London Papers.

Received at the office of the N. York Commercial Advertiser.

The Amphitrite, Captain Plumridge; Camellion, Captain Low (acting); Zebra, Captain Forbes; and the Elk, Captain —, have recently arrived from the East-Indies, to be paid off. The Amphitrite, Camellion, and Zebra, are new ships; they were built at Bombay, and are to be paid off at Portsmouth. These ships bring intelligence from the Cape and St. Helena of so recent a date as October 20 and Nov. 3. Bonaparte was at the latter date confined to his room by a cold; its severity most affected his head. Pionowski, his Polish attendant, had been sent away from the island. There was, it seems, sufficient reason in the latter part of his conduct, relating to his devoted master, to cause him to be removed; and he had been conveyed to the Cape of Good Hope, and placed under the direction of Lord Charles Somerset, the Governor of that colony. It was with some regret, we are most credibly informed, that Pionowski was received at St. Helena by Bonaparte. He expressed himself as not having wished for his attendance, seeing that he had not the means of rendering his abode on the island desirable; for it is not to be imagined that the 8000l. per annum allowed by government for the maintenance of Bonaparte and his suite is appropriated to any other purpose than that of purchasing such articles of necessity and of comfort as comport with Bonaparte's condition as a captive state prisoner. His rations are daily conveyed to his residence, and that without any regard whatever to his former character and condition. Sir Pulteney Malcolm, who had arrived at the Cape in the Newcastle, intended to sail again on his return to St. Helena about the 26th of October. The Orontes had arrived at the Mauritius, as well as the Mosquito; the other ships of the squadron continued stationed as before noticed. Lieut. W. E. Knight, of the Newcastle, had been promoted to the rank of commander, and appointed to the Griffin, vice capt. J. A. Murray, promoted to command the Spey. The Amphitrite, Camellion, Zebra, and Elk, all brought mails from the various presidencies in India.

The new light on Penzance-pier will be visible for the first time on Saturday night next. It is intended to show this light only whilst there is 9 feet water within the pier. Until the tide rises to that height the lamps will not be lighted, and they will be extinguished when the tide falls below it. A remarkable instance of the ferocity of a cat happened to the pound-keeper of the lock near Windsor-bridge on Tuesday last. The man had occasion to go into an out-house, whither his dog followed, where a male cat was shut in. The cat, on the appearance of the dog, became furious and fastened on the calf of the man's leg, from which he could not be loosened until he was killed.

Franklin's Correspondence.—It appears that the Franklin Manuscripts have been purchased by Mr. Colburn, and that the first portion, containing his correspondence will appear in a few days. Among the changes that have taken place in the condition of political society, the separation of the American colonies from the parent country has been by far the most prolific and extensive in its effects of any in the history of modern ages. Great indeed must be the value of the correspondence of Dr. Franklin, whose extraordinary abilities as a statesman and a negotiator, were felt and acknowledged in both countries, and by persons of opposite sentiments. It may also be confidently expected that a spirit of candor will pervade the whole of these letters, which to an Englishman must be curious and important in a very high degree, as throwing a strong light upon the early part of the present reign, and upon the characters of those persons who had a principal share in the councils of the government. They will also doubtless exhibit to equal advantage the philosopher and the man of business, the moralist and the negotiator, the profound legislator, and familiar friend who opens his mind and delivers his sentiments with the same ingenuousness on matters of science and policy, the conduct of private life and the interests of nations.

The following scandalous scene is related with very unbecoming levity in the paper, from which it is extracted.—Liverpool paper. Stanford Bull running. This annual carnival on the 15th November, was, from the spirit and excellence of the Wolfx lodge bull, prosecuted this year of more sport than has been known for a long time. Numbers of persons were tossed, but happily no body was seriously hurt. It was principally a stopped bull running in the cornhill, and best market. In the afternoon, the noble animal was baited in Castle-meadows, and was drowned in Great Cow holme, whilst struggling with a dog belonging to Mr Goodlad of Wanfold. Both bull and dog were deeply under water for two minutes, when the latter rose with life, but the bull was drowned. Such an instance of ferocity and bottom, it is said, is not on record, though the Stanford bull running on the 13th November has existed 570 years!! Stamford Mercury

THE DUTCH BUDGET

Brussels, November 8.—The following is an extract of the speech delivered by the Minister of Finance to the second chamber of the States General, in their sitting of the 5th of November:—

“High and Mighty Lords; it is under as favorable auspices as when I presented the budget for 181, that I now again have the honor to appear before you for a similar purpose. The elevated price of our public funds is a proof of the high degree of confidence which our financiers enjoy in public opinion; and the propositions which I have now to submit to you, in the name of the King, must increase that confidence.”

“The law of the 11th Feb. last, which fixed the estimate of the wants of the state for the present year, stated them at 82 millions of florins. The law which I am charged to propose to you this day, for regulating the expenses of the year 1817, does not exceed the sum of 73,400,000 florins. A florin is about 1.8d. sterling. The estimates for the different heads of expense are as follows:—

	Florins.
The King's Household	2,600,000
Great State bodies not forming part of any branch of Administration.	1,184,000
Department of the Secretary of State	506,000
of Foreign Affairs	856,780
of the Interior	3,900,000
of Affairs of the Protestant and other Worship, Catholics excepted	1,500,000 of the Catholic Worship of public Education the Arts and Sciences	1,200,000
of Finance, including the interest of the Public Debt,	24,750,000
of the Navy,	5,000,000
of the Army,	23,000,000
of Dykes, Canals & Public Works,	4,500,000
of Commerce and the Colonies.	1,239,457
Unforeseen expenses,	813,765
Total	73,400,000

“In the greater part of these branches of expenditure diminutions have taken place since last year; in some of them very considerable ones; and there still remains sufficient security that with the specified sums the regular service of the country will be sufficiently covered.”

“Four branches of expenditure have, however, undergone some increase. The increase of 90,000fl. in that of the reformed and other religious worships, and of 209,000fl. in that of the Catholic worship, have originated from that tender regard for the situation of the clergy, of which his majesty has recently given a proof, by granting a gratification of 30fl. to each of the ecclesiastics, to the number of 2,800, whose pensions were reduced a third by the former government, and who had reached the age of 60 years on the 1st October last.

“The increase of 200,000fl. in the department of education, the arts & sciences, is necessary for the purpose of covering the expenses of the new colleges and atheneums to be erected in the southern provinces, and to make further provisions for the support of inferior schools.

“The increase in the department of finance and public debt has amounted from 23,550,000fl. to 24,750,000, altho', in fact, the real disbursements of this department are principally increased by a sum of 400,000fl. to cover the expenses of the new coinage during the next year. The remainder of the increase has been occasioned by various expenses incurred by his majesty, for the purpose of introducing greater order and regularity into the details of this branch of the administration.

“Upon the whole however, your excellencies will perceive that the expenditures of the state for the ensuing year is diminished to the amount of 8,600,000fl. But his majesty is convinced that all the reductions and diminutions have been adopted which were practicable, consistently with external relations and defense of the kingdom, and its internal administration and welfare.

At the same time will not omit this opportunity of repeating the assurance that whatever means of reduction and retrenchment may be suggested by time and experience, shall be anxiously adopted and carried into effect.

The minister then proceeded to take a view of the ways and means providing for this expenditure.

These were the land tax, the tax on persons and moveables, on doors and windows, the indirect tax on consumption, and the produce of the new Tariff on imports and exports. He calculated that from all these sources the income of the state for the ensuing year would amount to 73,700,000fl., thus sufficiently covering the expenditure.

Charleston, March 26.

SHIPWRECK.—A Spanish brig went ashore on the south breakers of the bar on Monday evening, about 9 o'clock. The captain of her came to town same night, in the schooner Salome from the southward, and went down again yesterday morning in a sailing boat with 12 men, after having engaged the schooners Rising States and Salome to go to her assistance. He informed us that the brig was the Jupiter, 24 days from Havana, bound to Savannah, with a cargo of sugar, mahogany and cedar. The boat came up last evening, having put the captain of the brig and 6 men on board the schooner Salome, going to her assistance, they not having been able to reach the brig. They inform, that she lay nearly on her beam ends, with one anchor ahead and two astern, the sea breaking around her; the sails loose, and otherwise in a perilous situation.

One of the men who went down to the wreck yesterday, states that the captain of the vessel informed the boat's crew that she was from Cadiz. She carried a white signal with red border, red square in the middle, and the letters “T. S.” in the square, in black.

Captain West, of the schr. Mary, arrived last evening from Savannah, informs us that he passed very near to her, and saw the people in the rigging, the brig lying on her beam ends, and the sea breaking over her with great violence. They hailed him and begged for assistance, but having only a small boat, found it impossible to render them any. The two schooners above mentioned, were then heading down channel, to the assistance of the unfortunate sufferers; but faint hopes were entertained of her being able to reach her. Should she hold together until this morning, the lives of the crew may be saved; but it was the opinion of the pilots, and the captains of the coasters who witnessed her situation, that she would inevitably go to pieces during the night. The violence of the sea during the latter part of yesterday, rendered it impossible for boats to go alongside.

March 27.

The Jupiter.—We expected to be enabled to state this morning the safety of the crew of this vessel, which has been ashore on the bar since Monday; but they are still on board of her, it is believed, for no boat can approach her to ascertain.

Captain Mariner, of the schooner piper who arrived here this morning, from Savannah, informs us that he saw her last evening, but dared not to go to her. About 11 o'clock last night, her long boat drifted near the schr. and endeavored to save it, but failed. It is supposed the crew had got out in order to endeavour to save themselves, but whether they or any of them were washed from the boat, or they deemed attempting to make it impracticable, and suffered it to go adrift is not known. Two or three fishing smacks came up this morning by which we learn, that the hull of the brig is still to be seen with her signal flying, and the water breaking nearly all over her. The two schooners which went down to her assistance are lying at some distance off a boat from one of them endeavored to board the wreck, but found it impossible and barely succeeded in regaining one of the schrs. Should the weather not moderate in the course of this day, very little doubt can be entertained that these poor fellows will find a grave where many an honest sailor has before.

FROM NEW-ORLEANS.

Mr. S. Rosiny, arrived here about one o'clock yesterday in the sloop ga.

Volant, McLeann from Savannah Tuesday evening in the brig Sarah Ann, Smith, from New Orleans, in ten days from the Balize. He has lately finished us with New Orleans papers to the 11th instant, and the following verbal information, sailed in company from the Balize with the ship Cleopatra, for Havana, Mexico, having on board Gen. Mina, the well known Spanish revolutionist and a number of French American officers. The Cleopatra was accompanied by the States brig Tom Bowline; also, with Ship Armenius, for Baltimore, and brig Victory for Boston; the brig Olive for this port, sailed two days before the S. A. The U. S. frigate Congress anchored at the Balize just before the Sarah Ann sailed. On the 16th instant, between Havana and Mantanzas, and in the lat. of the former, was boarded by a privateer under the Mexican flag; she took only some provisions. A Buenos Ayres privateer, with a Spanish prize, had arrived at the Balize. No particulars known. Provisions were high at New Orleans, on account of the Ohio being frozen, but accounts, had just been received of the ice breaking up. About two hundred sail, mostly large vessels, were waiting freights at New Orleans. Cotton had taken a rise of best 25 cents.

Majority for Mr. Clinton, 44

The meeting also nominated John Taylor, Esq. for Lieutenant Governor.

General Brown yesterday visited some of our fortifications, and was received in a style appropriate to his distinguished worth.

The murder of Miss Hamilton.—We have been obligingly favoured with the following extract of a letter from the Rev. Dr. Bachford, of Lansingburg, to his son in this city, giving a circumstantial disclosure of the facts in relation to this unhappy and awful event. This extract will be read with deep interest, and the community will rejoice that the inhuman monsters are at last detected.

Lansingburg, March 26.

“I presume you have heard that Thomas Lent, of the borough about six miles above Waterford, has been committed to jail as one of the murderers of Miss Hamilton. He was engaged in this guilty business with another, of the name of Sickler, a native of the same town. Lent has confessed all the particulars, to which he has subjoined his signature. They are briefly as follows: Lent and Sickler had enlisted in the army, from which they deserted and returned home; but being pursued, they to prevent being taken determined to go to New-York. Sickler resolved to violate the chastity of the first female he should conveniently meet. They met Miss Hamilton in Albee, near her father's house. Sickler seized her with one hand round the waist, and with the other pressed upon her mouth. Lent took her by the legs. They carried her about a quarter of a mile to the fatal bridge. There Sickler committed the rape and (as Lent says) on account of her struggles and agonized resistance; Sickler asked Lent for his club, with which Sickler broke in her skull, and having robbed her of her gold earrings, threw the body into the creek. They both ran and reached a barn about two miles below Catskill, where they slept that night. In the morning they got on board a Troy sloop, arrived so n after in New-York, tarried there a day or two, and then returned on the west side of the river; stopped near Catskill, hired themselves out for a month, stole 2 horses, were over taken, and committed to Catskill jail for the theft. Sickler broke jail and returned to the borough. After some time Sickler went to the vestry, where he has resided nearly ever since, in the county of Cayuga. But the eye of God is upon the wanderings of the mind, often takes from him the prudence of the human mind, so in this case. "I presume you have heard that Thomas Lent, of the borough about six miles above Waterford, has been committed to jail as one of the murderers of Miss Hamilton. He was engaged in this guilty business with another, of the name of Sickler, a native of the same town. Lent has confessed all the particulars, to which he has subjoined his signature. They carried her about a quarter of a mile to the fatal bridge. There Sickler committed the rape; and (as Lent says) on account of her strugglings and agonized resistance; Sickler asked Lent for his club, with which Sickler broke in her skull, and having robbed her of her gold earrings, threw the body into the creek. After some time Sickler went to the vestyard, where he has resided nearly ever since, in the county of Cayuga. But the eye of God is upon the wanderings of the murderer, and at once takes from him the common pride of the human mind.—It was so in this case. Sickler had given frequent hints, obscurely indeed, that he and Lent had perpetrated the crime in question, but these hints were not regarded as any thing more than the vain boastings of abandoned villany. At last, however, the thing was brought to light. Lent's wife was found by her husband reading; he asked her what; she said the bible, he snatched it from her, swearing bitterly, and threw it into the fire; she got it out again, and a quarrel ensued, in which he threatened her life, and told her he had killed one woman already, and would kill her. Her sister's husband, Isaac Armstrong, came in at this time, and heard the words. He mentioned them at Mr. Trip's, at whose house Sickler had been brought up, and where he had boasted of the crime. This brought to their recollection what they had heard Sickler say in Lent's presence, and mentioned it to Isaac Armstrong. He came down to Waterford, and told it to Mr. Franklin Livingston, the deputy sheriff, who went up and took Lent at his own risk; summoned the witness; & after several examinations, Lent confessed the whole. Mr. Livingston, empowered by the Recorder of Albany and the Lieutenant Governor, set off in pursuit of Sickler last week, and I hope by this time has got in safe custody the other monster."

Non-Forg, March 23, Reward of Counterfeiters!
 Yesterday came on before the Hastings Court, now sitting in this Borough, the trial of Thomas Foreman, for passing Counterfeit Notes on the Union Bank of Maryland.
 The evidence in this case went so conclusively to establish the charge, that the Jury had retired but a short time, when they returned a verdict of guilty, and sentenced him to three years imprisonment in the common jail and a fine of One Thousand Dollars.

We hope this salutary example will have the effect of deterring such delinquent practices from further pur-detained wreathes from further pursuing a course of life, the most deplorable known to civil society, and which sooner or later, is generally detected and punished in a manner which consigns the perpetrators to the most degraded condition of man.

Robert, who arrived this morning, in 19 days from Tobago, informs that a severe epidemic, supposed the yellow fever, had raged among the inhabitants of that island, through the greater part of the winter. He believes that the disease has swept off at least one tenth of the population since the first of January. The disorder is attributed to the long prevalence of northerly winds, accompanied with unusual coldness of the weather.

BALTIMORE, March 31.

Captain Martin, who arrived this day from Laguna, in 22 days, informs, that there had been some skirmishing between the republican and royal armies, but the result was variously stated. Rumor stated that a proclamation had been received from Spain, granting pardon to, and restoring the property of, all such of the insurgents as would abandon their cause except officers, which was expected to be promulgated after the fall of Barcelona, an event confidently expected by the royalists.—Cumaná, still remained in their possession.

NOTICE.

The subscriber intending to remove from this place in a short time, requests all those indebted to him by bond, note or open account, to come forward & settle them up to first of January 1817.

He will dispose of the Houses & Lots he now occupies, and possession given the 15th October next. The dwelling house is calculated for the accommodation of a family, with all the necessary out houses, and a very productive garden, subject to a small ground rent—the stand for retailing goods, or purchase of produce, is inferior to none in town.

It is deemed unnecessary to give a more minute description, as it is presumed those wishing to purchase will view the premises.

He will also sell a quarter acre Lot and Dwelling House thereon, near the court house.

The above property will be disposed of on accommodating terms to those wishing to purchase.

THURSDAY, APRIL 3.

Extract of a letter from a commercial house in Liverpool, to a gentleman in Charleston, dated.

"LIVERPOOL, 28th Jan. 1817.

"We beg reference to the annual Circular of the 6th inst, and have now to notice a particular alteration in our Cotton Market, & an advance in prices, particularly of bowed and New-Orleans, of which descriptions there is a very great scarcity, owing to the small supply that has come to market. The quantity of both sorts, here and in Manchester, does not exceed 2000 bales, and the consumption of late has been immense; say 4000 bales weekly. The trade in Manchester is very brisk, and during the last 12 months. Bowed Cottons have been made into all kinds of Twist; so that it maybe reasonably inferred that if prices do not advance still higher, these will maintain the selves for some time; for the stock has not been so bare for nearly 2 years.

"Rice, within the last ten days, has fallen 5s. per cent, and is dull—the duty is not yet taken off."

LONDON ARTICLES.

The Emperor Alexander is turning all his attention from martial to commercial enterprizes; and is taking measures for the establishment of a Navigation Co. after our model. One of his agents has officially announced, that no goods can be imported into Finland (The country he has lately acquired from Sweden) except of the growth, &c. of the countries to which the vessels importing them be bound—on penalty of forfeiture of vessel and cargo. This will insure the coasting trade to Russian vessels.

The Americans have boasted of the importance of their commerce to Russia—to whom she was said to be the best customer.—The second list shows what little grounds there are for boasting on this score. The vessels which in 1816 passed the Sound, were 8371 in number; of which only 88 were American—not one of an hundred.—The rest were 1097 Swedish, 942 English, 325 Prussian, 430 Danish, 396 Norwegian, 208 Russian, and only 8 French.

A German paper asserts, that the Russian Ambassador in Paris had remonstrated with Louis 18th on his conduct towards Bernadotte, asserting, that Russia considers him as a powerful branch of the Allies; & as heir to the throne of Sweden; and therefore requests that the French Government would treat the Crown Prince conformably to his dignity, and to send an Ambassador to Stockholm. It cannot be denied that this is a very politic step of the Court of Petersburg—for if any change were to take place in Sweden favorable to the succession of Bernadotte, Sweden might revert to her ancient policy which bound her to France; whereas by the succession of Bernadotte, supported so openly by the Court of Petersburg, Sweden may become as closely connected with Russia as she formerly was with France.

The above shows what flimsy materials are manufactured into paragraphs in Europe, when poor France is the subject of speculation. Without noticing the grossness of this impudent interference of one nation in the affairs of another, it is intended to make it believed, by this article, that no diplomatic relations existed between France and Sweden;—whereas, by recurring to the French Court Kalender of 1816, it will be seen, that France has now an Ambassador in Sweden, in M. de Chateaubriant, brother of the celebrated author; and Sweden a Charge d'affairs in Paris, in the Chevalier de Sigouel.
